

Parents have high aspirations for their children

- I set high standards for my child's academic achievement
- I believe that academic success comes from working hard
- A degree will help my child achieve their ambitions
- I often talk with my child about higher education

